

FCC TASKFORCE SPOTLIGHT

NICHOLAS HALL

Founder & President,
Graham's Foundation
NICU Parent of Graham & Reece

Meet Nicholas Hall! He served on our Executive Council as a Family Partner in 2022 & 2023 and is an Organizational Partner through his nonprofit, Graham's Foundation.

How were you personally activated to advocate for and support NICU families?

The loss of my son, Graham inspired me to start an organization supporting parents going through the same journey of prematurity.

How does your organization/company/hospital support NICU families?

Our mission is to inform and guide parents of preemies so that they may confidently navigate the journey of prematurity. We do this through our care package program, parent mentors, and our mobile app.

What insight or advice do you have for healthcare partners who want to implement/strengthen FCC practices in their hospital?

Do everything you can to include a broad and diverse population of parents to participate.

What is your greatest wish in terms of the positive impact the FCC Taskforce members can make together in maternal-infant health?

That the number of hospitals participating in the Taskforce continues to increase.

What are the greatest needs of families in maternal-infant health you observe through your work?

Peer support.

What does being part of the FCC Taskforce mean to you personally?

An opportunity to learn from others and contribute to the community.

FAMILY-CENTERED CARE
TASKFORCE

Healthcare partners are... more important than they realize.

NICU & bereaved parents are... the reason I founded Graham's Foundation.

Graham's Story

You found Graham's Foundation because you or someone you care about is facing the uncertainty of premature birth.

I know that roller coaster. My twins, Graham and Reece, were born fifteen weeks premature on Thanksgiving Day in 2006. We lost Graham after forty-five days, and Reece spent four months in the hospital before finally coming home.

I know that bringing a premature baby home can present an entirely new set of challenges, and only time can tell what adversity our preemies may face.

I created Graham's Foundation to help educate and inform preemie parents so they feel empowered and confident while they navigate the journey of prematurity. We at Graham's Foundation are committed to a world where no parent goes through the experience of prematurity alone.

Life's true measure is not the days lived by the lives touched.
